

HIGHWOOD

ORIGINATORS OF SYNTHETIC WOOD

Environmental Policy

Highwood Consultants are aware and recognise the fact that the nature of all of our activities can and does affect the environment within which we live and operate. Therefore we are extremely conscious that by managing our business in a more considerate, thoughtful and responsible manner we can have a direct impact to improve certain aspects of the quality of our environment.

In order to achieve this policy goal we aim to manage responsibly our business in providing high quality synthetic timber products to our customers having at all times considered the wider implications to the environment as a whole.

To implement this action we are committed to:

Protecting the environment through the careful control of all the processes within our business and ensuring that our activities do not have any negative effect.

We also aim to continually improve our performance through:

Monitoring to make improvements as required in waste handling, storage and disposal including the reduction and recycling of all our waste products where appropriate.

Monitoring all environmental risks associated with our process and our sites, ensuring they are minimised as much as possible.

Reducing the environmental impact associated with our process and sites regarding the use of energy, water and fuels wherever possible.

Through encouraging a closer and more effective relationship with all of our suppliers, customers and any contractors to ensure the use of best practice at all times on environmental issues.

This policy will be implemented throughout all levels of our business and has the full support of all Highwood shareholders.
